

The SuperTuscans wines and the medieval village of Suvereto

Join this unique opportunity to visit Suvereto, named among the most beautiful villages in Italy and located between the hills and the shining sea of the Etruscan Coast. Immersed in the green Val di Cornia, the town is a real coffer: its walls guard treasures made from characteristic medieval streets, stone houses, historic buildings and evocative churches. All around endless forests of chestnuts, oaks and, of course, corks – or sugheri in Italian – hence the name of the place.

We will visit this thriving countryside, where the farms produce a wonderful oil and a wine so characteristic that it has obtained the DOCG denomination. Driving through the hills of the Wine Route, we'll discover the land where the SuperTuscans acquire all their formidable notes and we will experience the greatest reds produced, like Avvoltore, Redigaffi, while visiting the magnificent masterpieces wineries designed by the most famous Italian architects like Petra, Le Mortelle, Argentiera.

The tasting of the typical Tuscan cuisine in a countryside setting will complete the experience and delight our guests.
